47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

Stop the gerrymandering of the Internet by the over-priced utility Barons. Remove competition and you've just sanctioned higher prices with less service to the Consumer.

The cost of Services actually goes Down with technology improvements. Not so with companies like AT&T. The price just goes up, year after year without competition.

Sometimes, in the evenings, I also work from home. Internet access and upload speed is important to me as I am an Architect and I send drawing files back and forth with my consultants. These can be large files and require band width and speed to move thim=ngs along. My internet Service Provider does not charge me any differently whether I work from my home or Office. The fees for service are the same. My ISP has even lowered their prices in the past, Not my experience with AT&T.

Quite siding with your largest Corporate Donors and defend and uphold competition for the good of the people. It's good business.
